

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An information provider instructs a server system of an information distribution region and attributes of service users, monitors, based upon position
5 information from service users, the state of distribution of service users who have the above-mentioned attributes and are present in the information distribution region designated by the information provider, and distributes prescribed information to 10 mobile information terminals of the service users based upon the state of distribution of the service users.